Writing Letters

Communication

- sender and receiver
- purpose, message
- words, pictures, gestures
- often a delay between transmission and reception or reply
- patience and attention are required
- record is kept in many cases

Different Purpose- Different Requirements

- the language, the form,
- customs, illustrations
- preparation and records,
- execution, timing

It matters how we communicate.

Messages require,

- because of content and purpose,
- to be delivered in a way that compliments
- and clarifies the message and insures reception.

True of written, verbal and non-verbals.

While we can all talk,

- we need to learn and expand our communication skills.

Forms of non-written communication

- verbal, the words chosen
- tone and inflection
- facial expressions
- body posture

When these elements are not in harmony dissonance, confusion result.

Communication with God is Prayer

Prayer is Communication with God

8

From infancy to full Maturity

- we begin with just a cry
- we learn through observation
- trial and error
- follow models
- instruction and study

Our Spiritual Goal is to become like Christ in Character and even in function!

When we realize Prayer

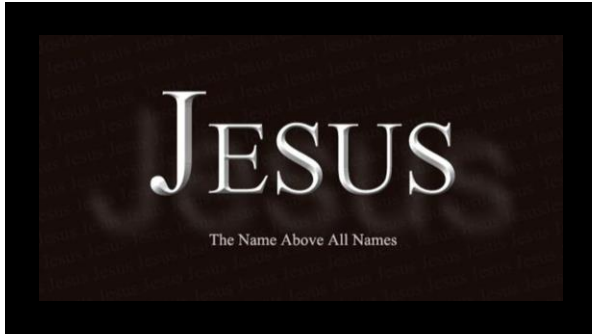

- is really just talking to God,
- that I am already made to talk,
- express myself & communicate
- it helps me take what I have,
- use it and grow in it

It takes the demand - the duty or the fear of praying 'wrong' away.
